Ample Recreation Possibilities; Old Shawneetown One Attraction

first in a series of six articles and picture groups describing scenic, historical, and recreational features of the six-county Shawnee Hills area. The information and photos have been garnered by Southern Illinois University and made available to newspapers in Saline, Hardin, Pope, Massac, Johnson and Gallatin counties. Gallatin county is being featured this week in all the papers. Articles and pictures on the other five counties will follow during the next five weeks in the order listed above. Readers are urged to clip the articles and save until they can take a visit to the spots suggested, not only for their own interest, but that they may become familiar with them to tell others what's there and how to get there and encourage others to come here

Bordered on the east by the meandering Ohio River, Gallatin county presents many recreational and sightseeing possibilities to the way curious tourist.

Chief among the attractions is the village of Old Shawneetown, whose 19th century buildings and homes still whisper of an historic past. Dominating the one-time business district is the First National Bank of Illinois, a stately limestone building, now weathered by time, which once represented a good portion of the state's material wealth. Still standing, too, is the old Marshall house, original site of the bank which was the center of financial operations in

Merchants Ass'n Backs Proposal Of Don Williams

Unanimous support of City Commissioner Don Williams, in his proposal of certain conditions under which he would retire from the Harrisburg City Council, was voted Tuesday by the Harrisburg Retail Merchants Association.

Legal proceedings to oust Williams on the grounds that he has moved outside the Harrisburg city limits, and is therefore not eligible to continue on the Council, have been filed by Mayor Claude Gibbons and Commissioner Morris

Williams has opposed the proceedings, but last week announced that he would resign from the Council if the remaining Council members would agree on a successor before he retired.

He stated that the Council otherwise would be divided, and that a stalemate of indeterminate length would not be of benefit to the city.

It was pointed out in the resolu tion adopted by the Merchants As sociation that the city's portion of the retail sales tax alone amounts to more than $60,000 per year, in addition to other revenue, and that it is imperative that the Council agree on a finance commissioner to handle these funds before the finance commissioner's office is vacated.

A Distinguished Life

Editorial - BY BRUCE BIOSSAT The late Sen. Walter George was the kind of lawmaker who makes the American legislative system workable and effective.

Inevitably, that system depends heavily upon a relatively few men of character and intelligence. This handful soberly guides the Congress on a generally sane course, helps it to balance or cancel its errors, keeps it moving toward objectives despite its great inherent inertia.

For many years George headed the important Senate Finance Committee which frames the nation's tax laws. In this post he was a stalwart guardian of governmental fiscal responsibility.

Basically a conservative, his opposition in the mid-1930's to some of Franklin D. Roosevelt's policies led the latter to attempt to purge George at the polls in 1938. The

Baker Reunion Boasts Member, 92, Attending: Officers Are Elected

The Baker reunion, held Sunday, began with a dinner in the lower room of the Mt. Moriah church. The oldest member present was "Uncle" Jake Baker from Lawrenceville, 92, and the youngest member was Bruce Small, six months old.

Rev. George D. Jenkins, pastor of the church, asked the blessing. John C. Small, president, called the meeting to order in the afternoon, a hymn was sung and Dee Small led a prayer of thanksgiving for the family.

Rev. Jenkins spoke of the early days in the community and gave full credit to the family forebears for the early Christian training and the Christian homes, stressing the need for active Christian homes today.

An election of officers followed with the result that Dee Small is the new president, Edith Small, secretary, and Nellie Abney, treasurer for the reunion and cemetery organizations. Money carried over paid Barney Ashe for the care of the Baker cemetery and left a balance.

Those attending were: Mrs. Bertha Ryan, Galatia; Mrs. Mary Weaver, Harco; Mrs. Wilbur Leitch, Eldorado; J. H. Baker, Lawrenceville; John L. Baker, Mabel Bramlet, Maude Ashe, Mr. and Mrs. John Robinson, Brushy; Mr. and Mrs. Dee Small, Marion; Mrs Eva Jacobs, Marion; Mr. and Mrs Subscribed and sworn to before G. L. #### Johnston City Man Files Suit Against Sheriff

Krantz, 25, Johnston City, filed a $10,000 suit against Williamson County Sheriff Carl Miller.

Krantz claims a deputy sheriff shot him intentionally during a scuffle. The suit, filed Monday, alleges that Deputy Sheriff Herman White shot at Krantz July 15 "with specific intent to kill."

The incident allegedly occurred when Krantz, who had been arraigned on a peace bond, refused to go to county jail until he could post a bond.

White said he scuffled with Krantz when he resisted, and the gun accidentally discharged.

Krantz said the gun did not go off accidentally. He claimed per manent disfiguration and injuries and also asked money for medical White and the Fidelity and De posit Co. also were named defend ants in the suit. The company holds Miller's surety bond.

Miller was named because the suit contends that he is "liable" for his officer's conduct.

We headed out of town on the wagon road. Starting onto the river slope I saw the ferry at the near bank waiting for customers. I wondered if we hadn't ought to use the ford instead. I didn't have much time for the ferryman, Nev Hawk, and I didn't want to listen to any remarks from him about my mule. Hawk had run the ferry as long as I could remember. It was the best business in Blue Springs. He got four bits for every rider that crossed and a dollar for a wagon.
